LELAND W. SMITH, a well-known teacher of the mysteries of mathematics, has been the faculty adviser for the Blue and White for ten years. Due to his leadership, his interest, and his untiring efforts, this yearbook has increased steadily in popularity. It is therefore with great pleasure and with sincere appreciation of the splendid work that he has done, that we dedicate this issue of the Blue and White to him.

The History of the Class of 1937¹/₂

Colossal Cinema Company.
X Boulevard, Hollywood
December, 1937

Dear Mr. Colossus:

Since it was last your pleasure to evict three of the greatest script writers in existence from your office, we have completed the working script for what will be not only magnificent, startling, touching, joyful, and sorrowful, but Colossal. This script, which we hope you will read with a proper amount of humility at being the first recipient of it, [we do not mean that there will be other recipients] is entitled:

THE CLASS THAT DIDN'T DEFER

FRESHMAN YEAR

Scene 1. It is the morning of January 28, 1935. Take a long shot of Classical through the early morning light with snow banks on either side. Two young people approach in the distance.

GIRL: Is this it?

BOY: No, that's not it. You're pointing at the church.

GIRL: Is that it?

BOY: No. That's the City Library.

GIRL: Then that must be it.

BOY: That's it.

Scene 2. Inclusive shot should be taken of the Classical High assembly hall, the seats of which are filled with awe-stricken freshmen. Shoot a closeup of Mr. Hill, a tall white-haired gentleman with the mark of a scholar upon him delivering a speech, the highlights of which are: "Those who receive consistently good marks for three years will be awarded magna cum laude pins. Nobody has the right to do that which if everybody did would destroy society."

Shoot another closeup of two intrepid advisers, Miss Battis, and Miss Jauch.

Scene 3. Shoot a view of the school gym with boys on one side, girls on the other, and a few of the braver mingling on the floor. Suddenly all is quiet. At this point we advise several closeups of budding statesmen giving campaign speeches. Then comes a final specialty, a tap dance given by Janice Cahill.

Scene 4. Shoot a closeup of an excited group discussing election returns. Work in the following announcement:

PRESIDENT: Barbara Beach, VICE-PRESIDENT: Janice Cahill, SECRETARY: Rosamond Morin, TREASURER: Joseph Homicki, MEMBER-AT-LARGE: Maurice Cavanaugh.

Scene 5. This scene is to be taken in a gymnasium appropriately decorated to suggest a "Winter Whirl." In one corner sit Mr. Fenner and Miss Gustafson, patron and patroness. Get extras for a mob scene when ice cream and cookies are served.

JUNIOR YEAR

Scene 1. Shoot closeup of new class officers.

PRESIDENT: Barbara Beach, VICE-PRESIDENT: Janice Cahill, SECRETARY: Betty Abbott, TREASURER: Joe Homicki, MEMBER-AT-LARGE: Kenneth Powell.

Scene 2. This will show all class officers walking out of the class of '37¹/₂ because they have deferred.

Scene 3. Shoot assembly hall during new elections. Take closeup of officers:

PRESIDENT: Ruth Chapin, VICE-PRESIDENT: Ruth Coughlan, SECRETARY: Rosamond Morin, TREASURER: Lucille Morey, MEMBER-AT-LARGE: Eileen Sullivan.

Shoot a closeup of Ruth talking about the small size of the class and the necessity of class-spirit. Take a fadeout shot as the dance committee consisting of Mary Meaney, Janet Davis, and Eugene Sullivan is chosen.

Scene 4. This scene is to be taken on the gymnasium set. Extras are to be young and collegiate for the gay Junior Prom known as the "Santa Claus Swing". Shoot closeups of Lou Goodman's orchestra and of the patrons and patronesses, Mr. and Mrs. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ressler, Miss Horrigan, Miss Jauch, and Miss Battis.

SENIOR YEAR

Scene 1. Shoot closeups of the two new class officers, Bill Sweeney, president, and John Mayer, vice-president. Explain that this election was made necessary because one of the officers graduated and the other deferred.

Scene 2. This scene takes place in the gym on the occasion of the 12B dance, the "Spring Swing". Certain members of the class are weakening and show signs of deferring. End the scene with a closeup of several couples busily counting units. [Counting units is not a parlor game.]

Scene 3. Autumn leaves are falling. A boy and a girl, both chic and collegiate in dirty saddle shoes and beer jackets, approach the school.

BOY: Well, we're seniors.

GIRL: We certainly are.

BOY: Just think! We belong to the class that didn't defer.

GIRL: Um-m. Maybe they'll put us in the movies like the "Charge of the Light Brigade."

Scene 4. Here we see the senior class pitifully shrunken but still undaunted. They are sharing with the 12B's, room 323, the former sanctum sanctorum of the 12A's. Shoot a closeup of a senior with a jealous glare in his eye.

Scene 5. The seniors are attending their last election to choose a new member-at-large and treasurer. The scene fades out as Ruth Masterson is chosen secretary and Arthur Fisette, member-at-large.

Scene 6. The Senior prom committee is meeting in 323. The meeting is delayed until another delegation walks in. By their looks one can see that the members of this new delegation are Technicalites. Surely not—but yes. They take their place on the committee meeting. What can life hold more surprising than the combination of the Tech and Classical Senior Proms. End with a closeup of the prom committee.

Finale. Take an inclusive shot of the senior class having its group photo taken on the front steps of Classical.

BOY: Kind of small class.

GIRL: Oh, well, it's cosier.

The group breaks up and the members of the class fade away happily discussing our football team which became class runner-up.

END

We say no more, Mr. Colossus. Our script must stand or at least stagger on its own feet. But don't forget. It has appeal not only for the parents but also for the young people of the nation.

Yours hopefully,

CHARLOTTE LITMAN, Chairman

The Prophecy of the Class of 1937¹/₂

SETTING: It is twenty-five minutes of three by the clock in room 323 away up on the third floor in Classical High School. At the sound of "class dismissed" 85 pupils have vanished as one man from the room. Two figures remain, deep in thought. They are your prophets, HELEN JEANNOTTE and JOE CALDWELL. HELEN looks disconsolate, but JOE seems rather excited. HELEN breaks the silence.

HELEN: Joe, I'm dreadfully discouraged. I've spent hours trying to write this prophecy, and what have I got? Only a headache. Do you know I find myself staring into space and thinking desperately: "What is going to happen to Johnny Mayer?" It's a terrible situation. [Hastily] I mean, trying to write this prophecy, not what's going to happen to Johnny.

JOE: Helen, our troubles are over. Little JoJo has solved everything. Now see this desk we're sitting on. Well, it looks like an ordinary desk, doesn't it? Aha, well that's where you're wrong. Little does Miss Battis know that her desk is the third magic carpet ever in existence. I call it the THREE TWENTY THREE SUPER SPECIAL UNLIMITED, but for short I call it the 3T-SSU. It may not be streamlined but oh boy! The Arabians had one. Eddie Cantor had one. Why shouldn't we have one? The best part of it is though that this one takes us about 10 years into the future. We can find out what's happened to all our classmates. All you have to do is to hold on tight and we'll go right to town. Hey, wait a minute! Where are we going?

HELEN: [Soothingly] Now Joe, it's all right. You've been thinking too hard, that's all. You wait right here like a good boy, 'til I get a policeman, or a doctor, or somebody.

JOE: Come back here. I'm not crazy. [Modestly] I just wrote to my friend Einstein and using the principal of the fifth dimension and aeronautic static waves and err ah—a few other things you wouldn't understand, he fixed this up for me. Come on. This ought to be fun!

HELEN sits down gingerly on the THREE TWENTY-THREE SUPER-SPECIAL UNLIMITED, and shuts her eyes as the new flying carpet glides smoothly out of the room, down the right corridor, into the art room, and out the open skylight.

JOE: [gaily] We're off!

HELEN: [in a scared voice] I'll say we're off. We're tetch in the haid. The next time you get me off terra firma—oooh. [Her voice fades away as the THREE TWENTY-THREE SUPER-SPECIAL UNLIMITED grazes the Municipal Tower by an eighth of an inch.]

JOE: Whee! That was close.

HELEN: [crossly] Joe, I hate to be a back-seat driver, but you got me on this thing, so for heaven's sake, watch where we're going.

JOE: OK! My little chickadee, but have you noticed, anything different about the scenery? Look at all those modernistic houses, and will you look at Forbes and Wallace's skyscraper? Do you realize that around ten years have passed since we started on this trip?

HELEN: [moaning] I'll say I do. I can feel my hair turning white already.

JOE: We're over Pynchon Park now. Look, the circus is in town. One mystery is solved. Do you see that bill-board down there?

HELEN: [peering down cautiously] Well, who'd have believed it? It says "See John Mayer, famous continental star, in his thrilling, death defying act of being shot out of a giant cannon."

JOE: [sotto voce] It would have to be a giant cannon to shoot Johnnie Mayer out of it.

HELEN: That settles him anyway. We can cross him off our list.

At this moment, a gigantic boom is heard, and as our hero and heroine look down, Johnnie Mayer comes sailing by with the greatest of ease, and then drops down into the net below.

HELEN: Joe, we'd better leave this place. All those people are pointing and staring at us.

JOE: All right. Let's go downtown and look around. We'd better park this lizzie, and begin snooping.

HELEN: Right. We've used up three pages already and have only got one prophecy solved.

JOE: Well, here we are over Main Street. Gosh, the parking problem is just as bad as ever. We'd better land on Forbes and Wallace's roof.

The 3T-SSU comes to rest on the top of the sky-scraper and the two prophets are soon in an elevator and down to the street.

JOE: Let's buy a newspaper. Maybe we'll find out something from that. Then let's go over to Court Square and sit on a park bench. There's an empty one. Here, you look at this part of the paper, and I'll glance through the rest.

HELEN: Here's something right on the front page. "William Sweeney, ace Fuller Brush Salesman, breaks records for sales in Hampden County." Isn't that wonderful, Joe? I always had a feeling Bill would make a name for himself. Mmmm—Here's another one of our class on the front page. "Roma Whitney, famous screen star, elopes with Count Amigoodski." Looks as if Renfrew Roma's got her man again.

JOE: It says in the advertisements, "Come to

THE BLUE AND WHITE

THE BLUE AND WHITE

Sweetie's Soda Shop for Smooth Sundaes—Rosamond Morin, Proprietress". Our Rosamond has made good it seems. Remind me to drop in there in ten years.

HELEN: Have you noticed who is editing the Union now? None other than William Hebert. That's going places isn't it? On page seven, it announces the opening of Mme. Elaine Gosselin's Dress Salon. Elaine always did have talent.

JOE: Here is a society note that ought to interest you "Mrs. William Schofield, the former Ruth Zandan, entertained the chatter-box Bridge Club yesterday at the Forest Park Ave. Pent House. Miss Charlotte Kus took the first prize and Miss Rose Ziff won the booby."

HELEN: Here is a book list that is very interesting. Kathleen Benson has just published her third novel "Away With the Breeze" and Robert Gutzwiller has just got out his autobiography "Bobbie, the Bold, Bad Boy Bandit", or "The Terror of Classical." Sold to Freshmen only.

JOE: Barbara Mize, famous opera star of the Met, sailed today to sing at the Paris Opera House.

HELEN: Listen to this one: Frances Magidson, Hollywood news hawk, says "It's rumored that America's Heart-Throb, Arthur Lovelorn, alias Arthur Fissette is 'that way' about ex-movie star Shirley Temple." That is a scoop.

JOE: And here's another. Ruth Masterson is the first woman treasurer of the First National Bank. Antoinetta Cicchetti is her secretary. That's making use of her talents, isn't it?

HELEN: I see that Doris Guenther is a photographer's model now. That's her picture advertising Goo-Goo Gum, on that sign.

JOE: Here's one of our friends in the Want Ads. "John Fleming wants a job as truant officer for a correspondence school."

HELEN: Barbara Woods is offering a special six months' course at her Finishing School on "How to make yourself beautiful in ten minutes".

JOE: Here are a few pictures of movie performers showing at the various theatres about town. Marie Mayer and Don Fortier are co-starred in "Classical Blue and White", directed by that noted producer Philip Katzman. And doesn't Don look sweet in that football uniform? I like these colored photographs they have in the newspapers now.

JOE: Mary Fotias' picture is here too. She certainly put Simone Simon in the background ever since she appeared with Bob Taylor in the Follies of 1947.

HELEN: I'm afraid there is nothing else in this newspaper to interest us, Joe. Let's walk down Main Street and see what's happening.

[The two prophets stroll down the street, until a large poster attracts their attention. It is a campaign poster of Morton Slavin, the peoples' friend. His mayoralty platform is "A thirty hour week for leisure." Nearby is a placard telling that Dempsey Bryant has just returned from London and will lecture at Phil Crowe's Deluxe Tailor Shop on "What the Well Dressed Man is Wearing." As the prophets finish reading these, they hear a radio from the next store. A voice is saying, "This is Marjorie Brooks, bringing you some news of the local people before Station WMAS presents Pearl Gardner's Cooking School of the Air."

"Evelyn Baker, an air Hostess from this city, has just finished her one hundredth transcontinental trip. The Air Line Company presents her with orchids as a token of appreciation for her services.

"Erin Mulvaney, courageous lion hunter, who has succeeded Mrs. Martin Johnson, has returned to this country with a record catch of twenty-three lions. She plans to make a lecture tour of the country.

"And this is our last item of the day. Charlotte Litman has been chosen as the Massachusetts delegate to the National Peace Convention. Her prize essay won her this coveted honor.

"And another Springfield girl, Ernestine Brown, will represent the United States at the Olympics this year. Ernestine, as you know, is a champion basketball player. We pause now to bring you the time, through the courtesy of the Evangellen Tea Room, Evangeline Kertiles and Ellen Pricopoulos, owners."

[JOE jumps at this announcement.]

JOE: Hey! It must be getting late. We have to leave right away.

[HELEN and JOE rush back to Forbes and Wallace and once more embark on the THREE-TWENTY-THREE SUPER-SPECIAL UNLIMITED.]

HELEN: Let's go slowly by some of these office windows. Maybe we'll see someone we know. Look in that dentist's office. That's Paul Foley with those big pliers. Helen Beck must be his office nurse. She is having a terrible time holding that patient down.

JOE: No wonder, the patient is Donald Pickrell.

HELEN: There's a new big building over there. What does that sign say Joe?

JOE: [reads] "Cushing's Marionette Factory." That's Henry Cushing, of course, of course. I'll bet he ran Tony Sarg out of business long ago.

HELEN: Joe, it's getting awfully late and foggy. We'd better hurry.

JOE: We'll be back in a jiffy. The fog is rather bad though.

[The 3T-SSU proceeds rapidly through the thickening mist until suddenly there is a loud crash and still louder screams. These fade away into the silence as the scene changes.]

HELEN and JOE are now back in 323.

HELEN: [dreamily] I was afraid that you'd forget that tower.

JOE: Huh! What did you say?

HELEN: [with a start] Oh! Did I say something? I'm afraid I've been day dreaming.

JOE: Yeah. I was in a fog for a while, but will you look at the time.

HELEN: [in despair] 4:30! It doesn't seem possible.

JOE: [gloomily] Well, it is and we haven't a thing done.

HELEN: You know, I had the funniest dream, Joe.

JOE: I wonder how Miss Battis' desk got all scratched. It looks as though it ran into a building. [The two prophets are still deep in thought as the scene fades out.]

The Will of the Class of 1937 $\frac{1}{2}$

We the Class of 1937 $\frac{1}{2}$, being more or less of sound mind and body, do hereby declare this to be our last will and testament, and distribute our wealth as follows:

ARTICLE I.—As executors of this, our one and only legal paper, we appoint that man of men, Popeye the Sailor, and as his assistant the hamburg king, J. Wellington Wimpy.

ARTICLE II.—Roma Whitney leaves her bottle of peroxide to Shirley Cooley.

ARTICLE III.—Ruth Masterson gives her ability of holding her man to Jane King.

ARTICLE IV.—That best seller of all times, "How to Get Through School Without Doing Homework," written by Bob Gutzwiller, is left by the aforementioned to anybody who thinks he has too much homework to do.

ARTICLE V.—Bill Hebert, our real life Palmolive Soap Ad [Palmolive for rosy cheeks] leaves said cheeks to whomever deserves them.

ARTICLE VI.—The ever popular John Mayer bestows his witticisms upon Joe Richards.

ARTICLE VII.—To Mr. Hill, we of the graduating class tender our utmost respect and sincere thanks for the work he has done at Classical for us.

ARTICLE VIII.—Dempsey Bryant leaves his high water pants to any male student who gets caught in the next flood.

ARTICLE IX.—Bill Sweeney relinquishes to Carl Draves his knowledge of how to conduct a class meeting. P.S.—Mr. Hill was standing by to help.

ARTICLE X.—That master exponent of the art of trucking, Bobbie Woods, leaves her ability to Lou Hedges.

ARTICLE XI.—To our esteemed advisers, Miss Battis and Miss Jauch, we leave our heartfelt thanks for their consideration and help in guiding us through Classical. [It was tough going, but we made it.]

ARTICLE XII.—Rosamond Morin, our class secretary, donates her notebook containing the records of our class meetings, to her succeeding secretary.

ARTICLE XIII.—Doris Guenther leaves her knowledge of chemistry to George "Goldilocks" Bisailon with the hopes that he can do better with it than she did.

ARTICLE XIV.—Rose Ziff leaves her ability to make the Honor Roll to her esteemed brother Bernard, who never quite understood how it was done. [He thinks its by pull, but we know better—or do we?]

ARTICLE XV.—Barbara Mize, our lovely songbird, leaves the echo of her golden voice floating around the walls of the Assembly Hall.

ARTICLE XVI.—To Joe Richards is left the tactful manner that Joe Caldwell has of bluffing his way through Classical.

ARTICLE XVII.—"Ways and Means of Getting Orchids" by Bud Baker, is left to all the girls in Classical.

ARTICLE XVIII.—Mary "Shrimp" Fotias leaves a new low for any girl in the coming years to equal.

ARTICLE XIX.—Art Fisette leaves that "four-wheeled contraption," better known as "Tincan Classical," to anyone who can afford to register it.

ARTICLE XX.—Marie Mayer leaves a muffler to Althea Whiting to obtain less noise.

In witness whereof, we have signed, declared, and published this document to be our last will and testament, on this day, January 17, 1938.

Signed:

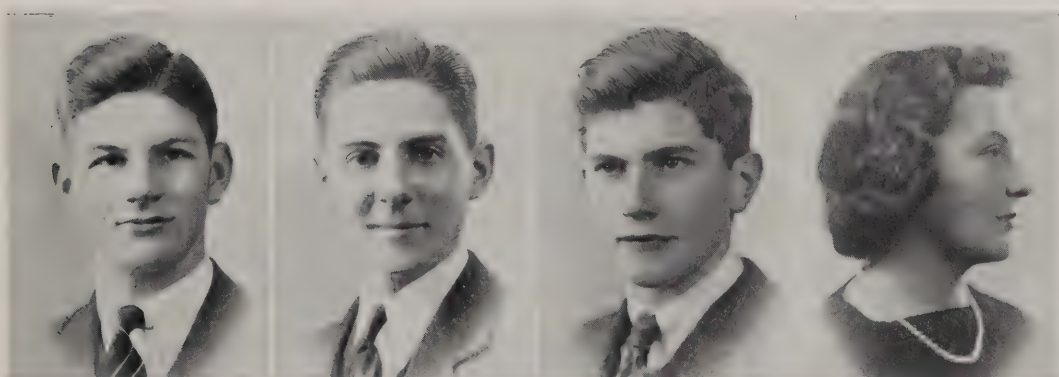

ROBERT GUTZWILLER

Signed, sealed, declared, and published by the above chairman, as and for the last will and testament of the Class of '37 $\frac{1}{2}$, in the presence of we, the undersigned, who, at his request have drawn up and signed as witnesses to the same:

The History of the Class of 1938

FIRST YEAR

Do you remember, way back in September 1935, when we, a proud but stupid class of freshmen entered Classical, and the Kant theme song "No one should do that which if everyone did, would destroy society." Then began those wonderful [?] gatherings called class meetings. Before the end of October, ambitious candidates were running around with nomination papers and preparing campaign speeches which were feebly presented at the 10B class social. After the election, we found Elmo Lombardi in the president's chair, with Marguerite Anderson, Janice Rothery, Anne Oehm, and Elaine Penn assisting him, Miss Maney and Mr. Ressler were appointed our advisors.

On the first morning of our new 10A semester, there we were looking much the same to our faculty, but feeling oh, so successful! At last we had some one to look down upon! How quickly we were scaling the heights of education! Upon our president leaving school, we elected Eleanor Anderson for our second leader. Soon we began to make plans for the 10A dance. The committee, headed by our president, Eleanor Anderson, and consisting of Barbara Anderson, Barbara Landon, Peggy Anderson, and Betty Moore, decided to decorate the gym in red, white, and blue. This dance was a startling success. During March, the rains descended and the floods came, and Classical was no longer a school but a refuge for flood victims. But within two weeks, the school life returned to normal after the departure of the refugees.

SECOND YEAR

We started our junior year with Mr. Ressler and a new advisor, Miss Horrigan, replacing Miss Maney, who had been transferred to Tech. No longer were we mere freshmen. No longer did we look up to the seniors [or even our teachers] with awe. Members of the class, in the persons of Bud Powell and Janet Davis, soon became prominent in school affairs by their election to offices in the Student Government.

Another election! It seems that we held an election almost as soon as the previous one was over. Carl Draves, with a strong political backing, was boosted to the presidency. Other officers were vice-president, Mary Westberg; secretary, Betty Abbott; treasurer, Anne Oehm; and member-at-large, Ken Powell.

According to tradition the junior class held its prom, the best in Classical's history, "The Santa Claus Swing". Bill Robinson, one of our more studious members, won the Washington and Franklin medal for American History.

With the arrival of Spring, we found many members of our class taking part in the various sports. Jack Calhoun, Brad Leete, and Fred Logan were on the track team. Cary Giles, Tim Leary, and Dick Adams were on the golf team. Morton Katz and Harvey Genden were on the tennis team. Leo Gagnier and Bob Gleason stood out on the baseball team. With the semester nearing the end, it came time for special awards. Jean Hungerford won a Washington and Franklin Medal prize in History, Mary Hawley received the Radcliffe Book prize given to the girl in the 11A or 12B classes who has the highest rank for the course up to the end of her junior year, and Allen Eldred received the Harvard Book prize, similar to the prize awarded to Mary Hawley. With a strong anticipation of our senior year we left for the summer.

THIRD YEAR

Then, only too soon vacation was over and we found ourselves back in Classical. Now we were seniors! The long awaited thing had happened. We no longer looked up to any one or anything.

During the first marking period, genius began to pop out all through the class. We broke all existing records for the number of pupils on the Honor Roll and, as if this wasn't enough, we had broken it twice more before the semester ended with an all time record of fifty-five honor students, eleven more than any previous class.

Although hard pressed by Jack Calhoun, Carl Draves was again elected president. Our only new officers were treasurer, Bud Powell, and member-at-large, Joe Homicki. In December, we held our "Crystal Prom" the likes of which hath ne'er been surpassed in Classical's History.

We were not without our share of athletics representing Classical's fine name. In our excellent football, there were such players as Captain "Chick" Camp, Tom Glynn, Carl Draves, "Bucky" Bisailon, and "Bud" Dillon. Bill Giles, Harvey Genden, and Jack Calhoun, were on the Soccer Team. With the arrival of winter, we found Bobby Gleason, Russell Dale, and once again Tommy Glynn carrying on for our class in Basketball while Captain Raleigh, Cavanaugh, Quinn, and Don Smith played on the Hockey Team. More glory was brought to our class by Jean Hungerford, Odette Gilchrist, and Bill Giles who won the French Medal, German Medal, and Athletic Honor Roll Pin, respectively.

In February, we found that most of us were still with '38, some a little shaky, but still there. The majority of the class found themselves in 323 with Miss Horrigan and our new advisor Mr. Finn, filling in for Mr. Ressler who was transferred to Trade. Some of our members held important places in our school life. Tim Leary was the editor of the Recorder, and Jack Calhoun repeated as president of the Student Government. As the Blue and White goes to press, the class of '38 prepares to bid good-bye to the good times we've had in Classical believing we have accomplished things not soon to be forgotten. Even though we may have learned little else, we've found that it's best Not to do that which if every one did, would destroy society.

The Prophecy of the Class of 1938

The Class of 1938, following their three unforgettable years at Classical, scattered about in the world, each after his own devices. And many of them in their chosen pursuits drifted into the enterprising community of Elmira, in Peabody County, where we find them on the eve of a great event.

The scene opens in the office of The Elmira Weekly Chronicle, where we see a desk, a chair, a mail-order printing-press, a bottle of printer's ink, and TIM LEARY, editor, publisher, and chief contributor to the Chronicle.

Ace [and only] reporter, "Scoop" HOMICKI, rushes excitedly in: Yippee! Hey, Tim! Sorry to have woke you up, but I got a scoop! A reg'lar humdinger!

LEARY [sleepily]: If it's about that free-for-all that Miss Rothery's Cosy Kindergarten for Kiddies staged, I already heered about it from Constable Gosselin.

HOMICKI: Nope, it's even bigger than that. Bill Robinson, Peabody County Fair Commissioner, is aimin' to run the fair right here in Elmira this year! All the town folks are talkin' it over so I knowed you'd want to hear about it.

LEARY: Wal, we got to know more about it afore we git out a special edition.

MARY JANE WALTERS, President of the Ladies' Aid Society and FLORENCE CARTER, President of the Women's Temperance Union, are seen walking past the office of the Chronicle.

LEARY: Oh, ladies, would you mind steppin' in here a minute? I'd kind of like to find out somethin' about this here County Fair. [To HOMICKI] If they's anythin' to know, we'll find out now.

MARY JANE: Isn't this jest the most thrilling thing that could ever happen! The County Fair right here in Elmira! Reverend Carlton Phillips said it would be jest lovely for the Ladies' Aid of our church to have a booth. You know Eleanor Mullen, "Plain and Fancy Sewing at Reasonable Rates?" Wal, she promised to make some pot holders. And Maggie Manthe [you know, she was preserves champion last County Fair] is goin' to put up some lovely currant jelly.

FLORENCE: And our Temperance Union is goin' to have a booth where Muriel Prouty promised to bring the church choir to sing hymns. And there is goin' to be a big entertainment the first night. Eileen Levy is agoin' to have some of her little piano students give a recital; Josephine Morton's elocution class is aimin' to recite The Boy Stood on the Burning Deck; and Ann Usher's "students of the voice" are a-getting up somethin' right nice. We might even get Josie Griffin to sing somethin' for us, though after being' sech a success at the Peabody County Conservatory of Music in Junction City, I don't know if she'd care to. Wal, we must be gettin' along to Norma Ashley's musicale. She's got some furrin' singer, Monsieur Guillaume Hughes this time.

Exit MARY JANE and FLORENCE, as RUSSELL DALE rushes in.

DALE: Hey, Tim! I want to run a advertisement in the Chronicle. I'm a-goin' to move my whole laundry into a booth at the County Fair so as people can see jest how I make "Clothes Whiter, Bills Lighter, and Double Your Money Back if a Button is missing".

LEARY: Say, Russ, what do you know about this here County Fair?

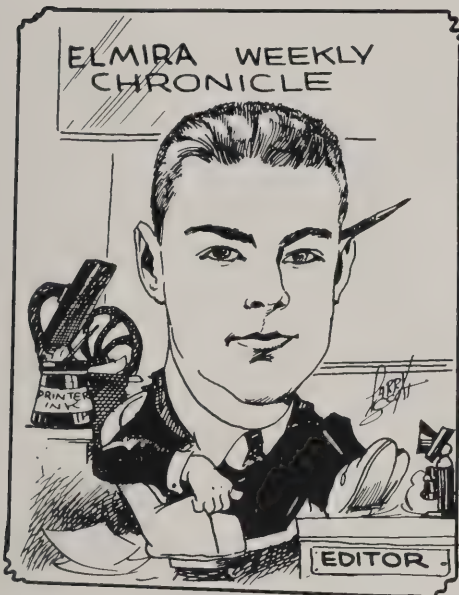

DALE: Wal, I heered tell there is a-goin' to be a athaletic meet starring Stan Cady, our town champeen pole-vaulter. And there's a heap of lecturin' goin' on. Franny Munson is fixin' to lecture on The Single Life as Expounded in My Book 'Pansies on Your Budget'. Babbie Stuart is a-goin' to tell how she won the Peabody County tennis championship. And Thora Moulton, the town librarian, has writ a speech called, Books, Books, Books. Wal, I gotta be gettin' along. Connie Whitcomb asked me special to get her laundry out today because she's expectin' lots of folks to be stoppin' at her inn while the fair's a-goin' on. [Exit DALE]

WILSON PARTRIDGE is seen walking by the office of the Chronicle with BRAD LEETE and six little partridges in tow.

LEARY [yelling out the door]: What's the matter, Warden?

PARTRIDGE: This here astronomer fellow said he was out in Farmer Phaneuf's hay field shootin' the sun, but these six dead partridges look awful suspicious he warn't shootin' no sun!

LEETE: You do me an injustice, sir. I am but a student of the celestial world. I know nothing about those partridges.

PARTRIDGE: Wal, you'll have to tell thet to Ole Jedge Giles. Bill'll decide whether these partridges committed suicide or whether you shot 'em.

Exit PARTRIDGE, LEETE, and the six little partridges.

LEARY: Hot dog, another piece of news! This edition is a-goin' to be sensational! If only Ruth MacDuff and Maurice Cavanaugh would leave off their courtin' and decide to get hitched so's we could announce a engagement, bet we'd sell a hundred copies!

HOMICKI: Do yuh reckon Anne Temple might like to run a ad about her tea room, seein' as how so many folks will be in town?

LEARY: Reckon she might if we asked her. And Jean Hungerford might like one about her antique shop. Better go see both of them.

HOMICKI: Oh, I forgot to tell you, Tim, when I was over to Betty Moore's Modern Bakery jest now, Betty said thet Sue Strong is aimin' to air her latest dance creation, The Half-Baked Apple, at the fair.

LEARY: Say, mebbe Frannie Hanford as President could make a announcement of the special edition of the Chronicle at the next monthly meeting of the Book Lovers' Community Forum and Discussion Group.

HOMICKI: the next monthly meeting of the B. L. C. F. A. D. G.? Say, when do you think this here fair is, anyway?

LEARY: I'll be ding-swizzled if I know.

HOMICKI: It's tomorry!

LEARY: Aw shucks, then we'll jest write a report of it after it's all over. Now I'm a-goin' back to sleep. Wake me up in time for the doin's tomorry.

The scene now changes to the fair grounds on the morn of the big event. As we approach the scene of the festivities, we are greeted on all sides by massive signs bearing the legend "Vote For Soule." When we have accustomed ourselves to the dazzling effect, we notice some booths and stuff mingled with the campaign posters [Courtesy of Paviol Outdoor Advertising and Feather Duster Company.] We resolutely march up to the gate. [Someone forgot to put the fence up around it so the contractors, Heb Albro and Ned Frost, are holding it up.] Allen Eldred approaches us and demands "two bits a pussin or a suitable piece of merchandise, preferabl' settin' hens." We regretfully announce our complete lack of setting hens, so he grudgingly accepts our two bits and we pass over the gate. [Albro, Frost and gate just collapsed when Irwin Joffe gained admission with a potted pink petunia.]

We follow the crowd toward the midway, where we first glimpse Philip Katzman, winner of last year's "hog callin' contest," using his power to attract hot-dog consumers. Competing in volume in the next booth is Don [See-the-birdie] Smith.

"Right here, daguerrotypes and tintypes of yourselves and your sweeties—two for a nickel, three for a dime! My motto is, Even Your Best Friend Won't Know You."

We hastily duck behind a "Vote For Soule" sign, where we find the pixillated sisters, Shirley Young and Rowena McGarry, telling Leary the latest gossip for his scandal column, with additions. Having taken some notes on their conversation for personal reference, we pass on to where we see a strange-looking tent with a knob on top. Why, it's Sahib Philipsci Londonium in his flowing robes and turban as the Seer Direct from the Land of the Crescent. We would like to know what fate holds in store for us, but we seer [oh-h] a lot of others who would, too, so we amble along.

Hearing squeals and cheers emitting from the Wimmin's Arts Building, we enter to see Ruth Coughlan Mary Westberg, Patsy Eaton, Shirley Cooley, and Mary Higgins wrestling with five husky babies. It's the Diaper-Putting-On Contest, and so far the wee tots are coming out on top. But, wait! Carl Draves, President of the Household Arts Commission, has just proclaimed Mary Westberg, most efficient from long practice, the winner! Behind an adjoining counter stands beaming Gladys Ruggles, surrounded by pickle, jam, and mincemeat jars, displaying proudly a huge blue button labelled, Champeen Preserves Putter-Upper.

On leaving the building, we hear Tom Bowers haranguing for Soule's struggle for the elimination of the Fill My Shoes oligarchy [control by a few, in case you didn't know.] Having finished his symposium on the value of democratic rule and the elimination of all candidates for public office, he introduces Walter Goltz and his Nordic Swingcopators, who promptly give out with Bei Mir Bist du Soule.

As we are trying to think of an excuse to get away, we glimpse through a rip in an old and very dilapidated tent near-by, Yoga Glickman, phrenologist extraordinaire, examining the lumps on the large and solid cranium of Donald Ducharme.

GLICKMAN: Now...let me see...This big lump says you are honest and always pay what you owe...

and this medium-sized lump says you are very generous...and this itsy-bitsy lump says you never complain...ahem, four bits, please.

DUCHARME: Is that all I get for four bits?

GLICKMAN: What do you want, the orbis terra with a fencum a l'entour?

DUCHARME: Oui, mon enfant!

Exit GLICKMAN, minus his jellata [we had to look it up, too] and turban, followed by DUCHARME'S foot.

We escape in the same general direction and enter a long, low structure labelled "Livestock Exhibits."

Inside, we find Madolyn St. Jacques, Claire Landers, Maybelle Skiffington, Lucia Lloyd, Margrete Mielow, and Deborah MacBriar determinedly displaying a variety of protesting cats. To Fred Logan has been given the task of selecting from these assorted pussies a champion. Judging from the menacing expression on the faces of the exhibitors, it looks like it will be a fight to the last "meow". We leave Fred to his fate and pass on to the dairy exhibit supervised by two agitated farmers, Kenneth Nagler and Richard Petzold. Three milkmaids, Lucy King, Virginia Carlson, and Janice Cahill, with three little stools and three little pails, are waiting for the cows to come home. Marion Burnett, Barbara Anderson, and Phyllis Armstrong are brushing up on their churning technique. Bucky Bisailon, with his eyes on the dairymaids instead of on his prize-winning cow, gets too near the recalcitrant creature, who takes advantage of the occasion to plant a hoof on his posterior. Immediately Nurses Dorothy Libow, Rita Bastow, Barbara Bailey, and Anita Kerr rush in brandishing a huge supply of bandages, splints and stuff. After working feverishly for some time, they depart, leaving the cow resting comfortably and her leg securely bandaged. The amazed Bucky receives only cold glances and muttered threats about reports to the S. P. C. A.

The next excitement is caused by Farmer Melvin Shure's pet hog, Eustacia, who suddenly goes berserk and upsets a ladder upon which reposed Farmer Arthur Carlson. The ladder departs, leaving Arthur hanging for dear life to a rafter. Gravity finally decides the issue, however, and as we depart, Nurses Libow, Bastow, Bailey, and Kerr are again rushing in, brandishing a huge supply of bandages, splints, and stuff.

We see two farmer's wives approaching. They are wearing straw bonnets and carrying on their arms baskets of what look like sugar cubes. As they come nearer we see it is Frances Ferri and Shirley Frankel. Mary Meaney, President of the Farmers' Wives Progressive Union rushes distractedly up to them.

MARY: I thought you wuz never comin'! Where's them eggs you done promised to bring for the Union's exhibit?

The Will of the Class of 1938

We, the class of 1938, being as sound of mind and body as we probably ever will be, in order to relieve ourselves of our many excess talents, do ordain this confusing document to be our last will and testament, and do bequeath these talents and possessions as follows:

ARTICLE I.—To Mr. Hill, we leave our profound esteem and appreciation for his excellent guidance and kindly attitude during the past three years.

ARTICLE II.—To the incoming senior class, we leave the custody of 323 in hopes that they will keep its flag flying high.

ARTICLE III.—To all class presidents, we leave the executive ability of our president, Carl Draves.

ARTICLE IV.—To the office, we leave our low marks and take our high ones with us for proof.

ARTICLE V.—To the freshman class just coming over the horizon, we leave our competent advisors in order that the difficulties of parliamentary law may be made known to them when they arrive.

ARTICLE VI.—Tim Leary leaves a "mashed up" mashie to Bob Calhoun, another assaulter of the little white ball.

ARTICLE VII.—Thora Moulton leaves her voice with the "soft pedal" to the pupils who wish to whisper in study halls.

ARTICLE VIII.—To Mr. E. E. Smith, we leave an octopus so he can get his arms around all the boys at once.

ARTICLE IX.—Major Thomas Bowers leaves his military posture as an example for slouchy freshmen.

ARTICLE X.—William Robinson leaves one of his delicate curls to the Museum of Fine Arts.

ARTICLE XI.—To the next year's football team, we leave the endurance of our home room teachers.

ARTICLE XII.—To the Sybarites who possess cars, we leave the special privilege of parking all day on Temple Street.

ARTICLE XIII.—To ambitious freshmen, Rosamond Larson leaves an autographed copy of the latest edition of her How to Pass all your Subjects with the Least Possible Work.

ARTICLE XIV.—Joe Hornicki leaves his vivid socks and shirts to anyone who has an eye for color.

ARTICLE XV.—To the Student Government, we leave the swinging door problem, hoping that someday these doors may be either swung off or replaced by revolving ones.

ARTICLE XVI.—To Adele Athana, Phyllis Nooney leaves her blond [genuine] tresses.

ARTICLE XVII.—Anne Oehm leaves some of her hours of study to Dot Landon.

ARTICLE XVIII.—The class of '38 leaves its record smashing honor rolls for future classes to dream about.

ARTICLE XIX.—Barbara Landon leaves the most secluded spot in Classical High School to Jimmy Wilson and some other girl.

ARTICLE XX.—Anne Boyd leaves more than a little gum in Miss Anthony's waste-basket.

ARTICLE XXI.—Chick Camp leaves a gap in the football line-up for the first two fellows who get there.

ARTICLE XXII.—Bud Powell leaves Tyrone Power a few fine points on technique which that screen lover never did acquire.

ARTICLE XXIII.—We leave an adding machine to "Rah-Rah" Smith to prove to him that one and one does make two.

ARTICLE XXIV.—We leave the new line "Loosen up and give" in place of that hackneyed expression, "This is another Welfare Board Penny Day" to Mrs. Buzzell and the Board.

ARTICLE XXV.—Allen Eldred will not leave his abundant knowledge to future classes because he has already promised it to his classmates.

ARTICLE XXVI.—Dick Case leaves his slightly worn, but still perfectly good, brief-case to Norman Judd.

ARTICLE XXVII.—To Monitor David Brown, we leave the corridors, as he has been after them for some time.

ARTICLE XXVIII.—George Bisailon, at one time a thorn in the side of some teachers, nevertheless leaves a large hole in their affections.

ARTICLE XXIX.—Josephine Griffin leaves an echo of her high notes ringing over Miss Clark's Glee Club.

ARTICLE XXX.—Patty Kieser leaves her naïvete to Sally Wheat.

ARTICLE XXXI.—Abbot Roberts and Robert Rad-ding leave their friendship to rival that of Damon and Pythias.

ARTICLE XXXII.—We leave to Mr. Rosenberg a brand new special 1938 model Windsor chair since the one presented him by the class of '37 didn't hold together long.

ARTICLE XXXIII.—Jack Calhoun leaves Classical's political field to Bill Orr.

ARTICLE XXXIV.—To the study-hall teachers, we leave the suggestion that they resume the ancient custom of sitting in the front of the room.

ARTICLE XXXV.—We leave the Assembly Hall piano to those stealthy individuals who will steal in and use it during second lunch.

ARTICLE XXXVI.—In closing, we leave this classy document to Classycal High School.

In order to avoid confusion, we, the undersigned, wish to make it known that this is the final will and testament of the class of 1938.

FRANCES: We made a awful mistake! In all the excitement we got sorta mixed up and accidently fed the chickens some Dr. Morton Katz's Guaranteed Reducing Cereal and ate the chicken feed ourselves. Must say it tasted a heap better!

SHIRLEY [pointing to the baskets]: But look what it done to the eggs!

MARY: Oh, my!

Exit the three farmer's wives in the direction of a booth singularly outfitted with lace doily on the counter, a reproduction of Lawrence LaVoie's locally famous painting, 'Two Cows and a Pansy,' hanging at the back, and a satin covered settee inside. MARSHALL STOCKWELL, photographer for the 'Junction City Star,' hovers before it with a worried expression on his face. MARIA MCCALLIN graces the inside.

STOCKWELL: Say, what kind of a booth is this anyway?

MARIA: It's an interior decorated booth. I'm tryin' to get folks around here interested in interior decorating something besides their stomachs.

STOCKWELL gives her a bewildered glance and rushes away.

Now the strangely sweet strains of the merry-go-round reach our ears.

ODETTE GILCHRIEST, song publisher supreme, gushes: Don't you love those Mozart trills and allegros? I asked them to play one just this once.

As we are trying to think up a cute answer, we notice Evans Brewster doing the rounds collecting the tickets of the carefree riders. He seems to be having some trouble collecting from the blond on the speckled giraffe and her companion on the cow with a broken leg.

ODETTE points out: Thet sweet couple are Bud Dillon, in from his farm to show his boss's cattle, and the village belle, Mabel Mulcare.

The erstwhile vehicle [merry-go-round to you] seems to have some rivals. Look at the ferris wheel whirl! It's Jack Linberg at the controls, the local boy who made good at the tin lizzy races last year. Elizabeth Robinson, Jane Woodward, and Peggy Seabury pass by the ferris wheel, casting scathing looks at Jack.

ODETTE hastens to explain: Nobody has forgot those tin lizzy races, what with all the fuss the ladies made bout the bettin' that was goin' on. It still is a mystery how they happened in upon it, though with Janet Rogers bein' head of women's affairs, they're takin' quite an interest in town matters now. 'Peared like Cary Giles and the rest of the Town Fathers warn't any too pleased to have them buttin' in. But maybe that was because they was doin' all right themselves, that is, until riot squad Chick Camp broke it up. If you'll excuse me, I'm a-goin' over to the merry-go-round and see if they'll play a little Mendelsohn.

There's Ole Doc Dunham over by a Vote For Soule poster talking to his favorite patient, (Call me Dixie), Peele.

THE DOC: Wal, Margie, how's your sale of Confederate bonds comin' along?

MARGIE: Jest fine, Dave. Pat Kieser is tryin' to git a monopoly on 'em, so I've sold most all thet The Society for the Preservation of the Southern Accent gave me to sell. Oh, here come the officers of the Tuesday Afternoon Sewing Circle. Mebbe they'll buy some.

LUCILLE HEDGES, JANET DAVIS, and MARJORIE GILBERT are seen approaching.

MARGIE: Afternoon, ladies, I was wonderin' if you'd—

ALL: No!

Exit the officers of the Tuesday Afternoon Sewing Circle.

THE DOC: Aw, thet's too bad, Margie. But I'll buy some.

They exit, mumbling about the nerve of some people, five thousand dollars, one-tenth of a percent interest, etc.

Now "Ozzie" Popham and his Orchestra are tuning up to play—why, it's Home Sweet Home! Looks like the fair is finished. [And so are we!]

Football

Captain, CHARLES CAMP

Manager, EDWARD FRIEDLANDER

Under the able tutelage of Bob Berry, Classical's football team enjoyed its best season in many years. After winning six games in a row they lost the city championship to a high class Tech machine. Camp and Draves in the line, and Welch and Richards in the backfield won "All-City" recognition, while Camp and Welch also gained "All-Western Mass." ranking.

Soccer

Captains, HORACE BORDEN, JACK CALHOUN

Manager, CHESLEY COLCORD

Classical's Soccer Team guided by "Curly" Relyea in his first year as a Classical coach had only a mediocre season, winning five while losing six and tying one. At times they looked very good, but they couldn't hold their pace. The prospects for next year are very good with ten major letter men returning.

Track

Coach, "CURLEY" RELYEA

Manager, CHESLEY COLCORD

With many veterans returning, the Classical track team looks forward to a successful year. Bauld and Calhoun were point-getters in last year's Western Massachusetts Interscholastic Meet and figure to do well this year. Other standouts are Orr, Logan, Leete, Garvin, Camp, Barnes, and Baldwin.

At the first meet this year at Enfield, Classical handed the Enfield trackmen their first home loss in five years. Bauld scored highest for Classical with an aggregate score of 13 points, Calhoun following up with 6 points. Camp, Hitchins, and Vassos all featured in the discus throw, the winning toss being 90 feet, 5 inches. The final score of the meet was Classical 53, Enfield 46.

Athletic Scholarship Awards

Any boy receiving a major letter in a sport and having been on the honor roll for the period during that sport is entitled to an Athletic Scholarship Pin. This is a gold "c" on blue and white enamel. Donald Moylan earned his pin in football. William Giles won the award in soccer.

CHAMPIONS

Intramural Basketball

The "A" league in the Intramural league was dominated by one team all the way. The Unknowns led by Robinson and W. Giles in the scoring columns and their defense boasting Draves, the Calhouns, C. Giles and R. Petzold didn't drop a game all season. In the "B" league the Turkish Terrors and the "L" Men fought it out neck and neck. The "L" Men, winners in the "B" league, finally played the Unknowns, winners in the "A" league for the championship, with the Unknowns breaking through as the final champions.

Girls' Sports

Soccer and Hockey

This year, unlike before, girls' field hockey and soccer did not feature inter-school games. A new system of inter-park contests was arranged, whereby Classical girls met at the three parks, Forest, Blunt, and Van Horn, to form teams with girls from Technical and Commerce. The outstanding members from Classical on the winning Forest Park team were Frances Ferri, Peggy Anderson, and Jean Hungerford. In Soccer, Forest Park was again the winner, with Margaret Welch, Helen Tanner, and Gene Bennett giving splendid support to their team.

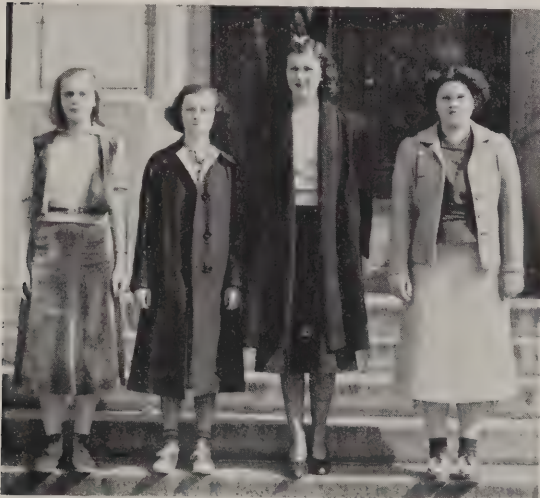

Swimming

Another new feature this year was the swimming classes held at the Springfield College pool. A beginners group and an intermediate group met weekly under the supervision of Mrs. Dayton. The instruction was given by the teachers and students of Springfield College. The beginners learned fundamental skills related to swimming. The intermediates received instruction in swimming, diving and life saving. It is hoped that it will be possible to continue next year these classes, which have proved very popular.

Badminton and Ping Pong

Badminton and ping pong remained two of the favorite indoor games. The upper class ping pong championship went to Bob Landon when she defeated Connie Whitcomb. Lenore Sagalyn came in first in the lower class tournament, with Katherine Hall as runner-up. In a fast, excellently played match between the two champions, Bob finished the winner to receive the school championship cup.

In the upper class badminton tournament Betty Moore received first place with Jane O'Malley as runner-up, while the lower class tournament went to Barbara Bliss when she defeated Janet Erwin. In the contest for the school championship Betty and Barbara both showed much skill, but Betty gained the victory to receive the coveted cup.

Basketball

From the number appearing for practice, it was evident that the most popular sport with Classical girls is still basketball. In the first semester tournament the 12B "Chickadees" were the champions, but they dropped to runner-up in the second semester, with the 12BA "Comics" coming in as the winners. Outstanding playing was done by Kitty Cahill, Mary Elizabeth Munger, and Jean Hungerford. In the beginners' basketball classes, the girls were taught the fundamentals of the game and also had an opportunity to play games, frequently assisted by upper class basketball enthusiasts.

The Ski Club

The Ski Club is an activity organized this year by a group of enthusiasts in the sport. At the first meeting, Clara Ellen Bettes was elected President, Ruth Johnson, Vice-president, and Phoebe Blunt, Secretary. Mrs. Dayton agreed to act as adviser, and plans were made several times to have outdoor meetings with instruction. However, each time there was some difficulty in the matter of snow, and, as the club was organized rather late in the Spring, there was soon no snow at all. The club therefore suspended its activities until next winter, when it is hoped that a full schedule of outdoor meetings will be possible.

Tennis

Tennis classes began in the Spring, with lessons held in the Classical gym at first. Many girls profited by this opportunity to learn or renew their acquaintance with the fundamentals of the game, and then continued their practice at the Forest Park courts. Upper and lower class tournaments were organized, which should end late in the Spring.

G. A. A. Pins

This year, more G.A.A. pins were awarded than ever before. Jean Hungerford, Anne Oehm, Janice Cahill, Betty Moore, and Marguerite Berthiaume received this award, for which they had worked three years. It is necessary to participate in at least one sport every season to win a large "C", three of which make the owner eligible for a G.A.A. pin. Points toward the "C" may also be earned by being a traffic officer or a G.A.A. officer, by working on G.A.A. party committees, and by refereeing the various tournament matches. Sportsmanship and scholarship are the other considerations which enter into the qualifications for this award.

Girls' Riding Club

The Riding Club

In the Spring the Riding Club resumed its activities, with a group of about thirty-five girls participating in the breakfast rides and the regular Tuesday, Friday, and Saturday classes. Mrs. Dayton taught as well as supervised these classes, which each year are finding more favor with Classical girls.

The G. A. A.

The Girls' Athletic Association includes in its membership all girls who are in the Student Treasury or who pay dues to the organization. Shortly after the beginning of each semester, to initiate the new Freshman members a G.A.A. costume party is held, during the day of which the initiates must wear a specified costume. This always includes large name placards, to help the girls get acquainted, and a necklace of safety pins to replenish the supply kept in the gym. The G.A.A. also sponsors an annual Christmas dance, which this year was unusually successful. The main Spring activity is a hike and hot dog roast. At the end of the school year, the G.A.A. awards cups, pins, and letters to the girls who have excelled in the various sports.

The cake-eater and his lady friend had just encountered a bull-dog that looked as if he might share a mean lower jaw.

"Why Percy," she exclaimed as he started a strategic retreat. "You always swore you would face death for me."

"I would," he flung back over his shoulder, "but that blamed dog ain't dead".

A young lady went into a well-known establishment a few days ago and said to the floorwalker, "Do you keep stationery?"

"No, Miss," replied the floorwalker, "If I did I should lose my job".

Harry: "Ah, there you are. Where have you been during the last three dances?"

Alma: "Jimmy was showing me some new steps."

Harry: "Were they very hard?"

Alma: "No, we took some cushions along."

Tut, Tut!—Talkative Lady: "A big man like you might be better occupied than in cruelly catching little fish."

Angler: "Perhaps you're right. But if this fish had kept his mouth shut he wouldn't be here."

"What makes this meat taste so queer?" inquired Mr. Gish.

"I can't imagine," responded the fond bride. "I burned it a little but I put Unguentine on it at once."
